

Water Coolers Delivery Service for Offices - Work Places - Schools

Contributed by Admin
Friday, 26 January 2007
Last Updated Friday, 26 January 2007

Water coolers for offices, schools and homes

Eden Springs is Europe's leading water service provider, supplying water coolers to offices, industrial workplaces, schools, and homes across the UK.

We provide an exceptional bottled water delivery service and a customer care team dedicated to helping you with all your enquiries. All Eden water coolers, bottles and accessories are designed in standard sizes to fit in a place you choose without any problem.

At Eden Springs we believe that a hydrated workforce is a productive workforce. Hydration plays a key role in supporting creativity, raising energy levels and increasing focus and concentration in the office.

Most businesses lose money every year due to staff sickness. By ensuring that your employees are properly hydrated, this can be reduced. Eden Springs is committed to keeping your workforce fully hydrated and at their peak mental and physical readiness for the day ahead. Our range of office water coolers includes both bottled fed water coolers and plumbed-in water coolers.

Eden Springs also supplies water coolers for schools, colleges and universities. Medical experts agree that drinking more water is crucial in improving concentration, alertness and focus. This is particularly relevant to the school environment and we believe that all schoolchildren should have adequate access to quality drinking water at school. We aim to work with all schools to provide a suitable drinking solution, which will benefit everybody.

Eden Springs supplies a range of watercooler products to suit every need. The Eden free-standing bottled water cooler is a stylish and reliable model which is designed to fit comfortably into any workplace or home. The cooler dispenses both hot and cold or ambient and cold water and is available in black or white. While the Eden desktop cooler is an innovative space-saver, which will fit neatly on any desk-top or office counter. The cooler dispenses both hot and cold or ambient and cold water.

Of course, a watercooler system that depends on regular deliveries of bottled water is not always convenient which is why we've developed the Eden Filter Systems range of plumbed-in water coolers. Combining elegant designs with functionality, our filter systems dispense a continuous flow of chilled and hot drinking water with all the taste appeal of natural bottled water.

Eden Springs uses water extracted from private springs dedicated to our own use, and are environmentally protected. As a member of the BWCA (British Water Cooler Association) and the EPDWA (European Point of Use Drinking Water Association) we are subject to stringent quality standards, which are externally audited annually in our bottling plants and our branches.